Bio: Cheng-Yung Kuo was born in Kaohsiung and raised in Taipei, Taiwan. After he finished his high school and 2-year military service, he moved to Chicago, United States in 2001 and received his Bachelor and Master degree in 2009. He currently works as Marketing Design Manager at a global engineering pump rebuild company. Cheng-Yung met and married his best friend and best partner Sophia Huang four years ago, they had met through volunteer work they did together at 24th TCCNA annual conference in Chicago. At Taiwanese Chamber of Commerce, they both can provide opportunities to members of the network and community. Currently they run their own business as financial service professionals helping and educating families to establish college savings, retirement funds, and saving plans.

Taiwanese Chambers of Commerce is Cheng-Yung's passion, his family, and his life. Through this organization, he has transitioned himself from a student who was promoting Taiwanese culture and community by myself, to a leader who can organize and host numerous meeting and events, lead a great team, and even applied the entrepreneurship knowledge he has obtained to start his own business. Since he came the President of TJCCNA, he has visited and brainstormed with local North America chapters in Detroit, Gainesville, Seattle, Vancouver, Northern California, Toronto, and LA. He was able to inspire Detroit local young professionals to re-establish their junior chapter. Furthermore, during his term of TJCCNA, he created the 'TJCCNA' official page and job posting board group on LinkedIn where he hopes all junior chamber numbers can communicate and leverage each other's knowledge and expertise through LinkedIn platform. No matter if you are a young professional or student, you can share work experiences, initialize a topic discussion, post job opportunities, and even look for business partners there. He believes this is a great way to strengthen the TJCCNA network!

Cheng-Yung is proud to be part of Taiwanese community. Not only does he serve as a committee member of Taiwan School in Chicagoland, he also works closely with Taipei Economic and Cultural Office in Chicago (TECO) to help organize events for Taiwanese community in Chicago and throughout North America. The Taiwanese Chambers of Commerce really brightened and benefited his life, and he would definitely try his best to serve and contribute to this community! He looks forward to seeing all of you benefit and learn a lot through this organization.

Vision

Cheng-Yung's envisions, for the World Taiwanese Chambers of Commerce Junior Chamber:

- To establish a well-connected networking for new generations of Taiwanese
- To foster a positive professional and entrepreneurial environment,
- To create business opportunities among the members of chambers of commerce around the world
- To host company tours, business start-up panel, professional and leadership development workshop, and mentorship program
- To promote unique Taiwanese culture, language, and people
- To connect junior chamber and senior chamber and encourage the two to work together and further their growth of one another

Cheng-Yung is personable, sincere, and has a genuine warm personality. He had served as:
